Happy Christmas AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Dear readers,

Though a time has come for us to witness the dawn of a new calendar year 2020 about which government is keenly optimistic and pinned it to be a better year for national economy as well as good governance. Culminating the achievements of ending calendar year will perhaps be beneficial in drawing lines afresh for future targets to achieve. It becomes possible when we learn from mistakes we have made in the ending year. Situation is gradually settling down and silhouettes are becoming legible and prominent as well for us to move in the right direction. Only, proper planning and setting up of priorities is what we require to spend in avenues that results in economic benefit.

In this realm, ports and shipping sector is one that has economic benefit and offers umpteen lucrative prospects when looked at in conjunction with the CPEC development programme of Pakistan. Digitalization and automation are also gradually taking place in this particular sector of our national economy.

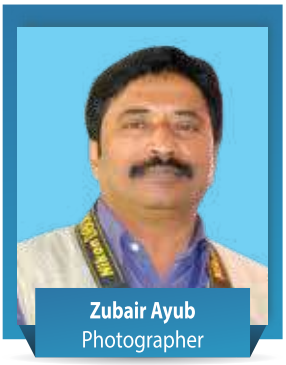

Karachi Port Trust (KPT) being the premier of port of Pakistan has expanded to provide more berths to deeper draught vessels at South Wharf of Karachi Port. More expansion through establishment of freight corridor, LNG complex cum desalination plant, special economic zones, etc, have been conceived by the port and are presently in approval phases. KPT is also setting up LNG container handling facility in the West Wharf area which promises new business for the port as we enter the new year with warm blessings of Almighty Allah (subhana ho wa ta'ala).

NEW FUEL EMISSION
Standards for Shipping

The International Maritime Organization (IMO) is set to impose new emission regulation to curb pollution produced by the Shipping Industry world over. The new rule of IMO is poised to shipping vessels using fuel with sulphur content higher than 0.5%. Presently, the upper limit of Sulphur oxide is 3.5% and unless the ships are equipped with exhaust cleaning systems known as scrubbers, it is not possible to bring the level down from 3.5%. The change is drastic. This meant ships would require a fuel product to meet the more stringent rules. It also means; ships found in violation of the new law risk being impounded as ports are expected to police visiting vessels.
